In the wake of the news that our onetime Antipodean competitors AC/DC have just released their own brand of wines (whole lotta rosé, anyone?), Angel Up Front are proud to announce our new range of designer beverages: -

Suzi's Sambuca – in a variety of flavours, every bottle has been personally sampled; for hygiene reasons, customers are advised to gargle with turpentine after drinking it.

Ben's Beer – comes in its own special souvenir 15,000 gallon road tanker.

Alan's Ale – a classic English brew, this has been aged for an unfeasibly long time, and yet somehow is still not remotely mature.

Stooie's Sundowner – an organic cocktail of molten goat's cheese, magic mushrooms and belly button fluff, flavoured with a hint of creosote.

Available from all good bookstores, in the alley round the back. No animals were harmed in the making of this advertisement.

'Evenin, all!

This is PC Stuart here, welcoming all law-abiding citizens to this month's Neighbourhood Watch flyer. Now then, police intelligence (don't laugh at the back there) is that the notorious AUF gang – wanted in association with a number of public order offences and noise regulation violations - are loose on the streets again. Members of the public are advised to not to confront these desperate individuals; particularly their ringleader, known in underworld circles as "Big Angela". If you do spot her in public, you are advised to immediately dial 999 and ask for a dozen burly firemen, three gallons of whipped cream, and a tub of vaseline. It says here...
